This Notice describes how health information about you may be used and disclosed and how you can get access to this information. Please review it carefully.

Effective February 8, 2010

Background

The HIPAA Privacy Rule created national standards to protect individuals’ medical records and other personal health information.

- It gives individuals more control over their health information.
- It sets boundaries on the use and release of health records.
- It establishes appropriate safeguards that health care providers and others must achieve to protect the privacy of health information.
- It holds violators accountable, with civil and criminal penalties that can be imposed if they violate patients’ privacy rights.
- And it strikes a balance when public responsibility supports disclosure of some forms of data – for example, to protect public health.

For individuals — it means being able to make informed choices when seeking care and reimbursement for care based on how personal health information may be used.

- It enables individuals to find out how their health information may be used, and about certain disclosures of their information that have been made.
- It generally limits release of information to the minimum reasonably needed for the purpose of the disclosure.
- It generally gives individuals the right to examine and obtain a copy of their own health records and request corrections.
- It empowers individuals to control certain uses and disclosures of their health information.

This HIPAA Notice is based on information from U.S. Department of Health & Human Services. For more detailed information about health privacy, visit U.S. Department of Health & Human Services, “Medical Privacy: National Standards to Protect the Privacy of Personal Health Information” website (http://www.hhs.gov/ocr/hipaa/).

Independence, Inc. is committed to protecting your health information and following all laws regarding the use of your health information. This Notice describes how we will use, share and protect your health information we receive or create. It also explains your rights regarding the privacy of your health information as required by law. If you have questions about this Notice, or if you want more information about the privacy practices at Independence, Inc. please contact the Executive Director.
Who is Covered by the HIPAA Privacy Rule

The HIPAA Privacy Rule applies to health care providers, health plans, health care clearinghouses, and any business associate that transmits health information in any form or media, including electronic, paper or oral. The Privacy Rule calls this information “protected health information (PHI).”

The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA Privacy Rule) applies to all employees of Independence, Inc.

The HIPAA Privacy Rule allows covered entities to disclose protected health information to business associates when they obtain assurances that the business associate will use the information only for the purposes for which it was engaged by the covered entity, will safeguard the information from misuse, and will help the covered entity comply with duties under the HIPAA Privacy Rule.

Covered entities may disclose protected health information to an entity in its role as a business associate only to help the covered entity carry out its health care functions. (U.S. Dept of HHS, “Health Information Privacy” Dec. 3, 2002 revised April 3, 2003)

How Independence, Inc. May Use or Disclose Your Health Information Based on HIPAA

Independence, Inc. staff may disclose your protected health information to a business associate also covered by HIPAA only to help them carry out their health care functions. When your health information is shared with other agencies or organizations that perform a health care function, we will limit the disclosure of your information to the amount of information that is the minimum necessary.

The following categories describe the ways Independence, Inc. may disclose health information based on the HIPAA Privacy Rule and Independence, Inc. Confidential Consumer Information policy.

Treatment: We may disclose your health information in order to provide you with our professional services. We have established "minimum necessary” and “need to know” standards that limit various staff members' access to your health information according to their primary job functions. Everyone on our staff is informed of our confidentiality policies and is required to abide by these. If a staff member fails to comply with the agency’s confidentiality policies, his or her employment at the agency will be terminated.

Collaboration: We may disclose your health information with other healthcare professionals who provide treatment or service to you. These professionals will have a privacy and confidentiality policy like this one. With your permission, health information about you may also be disclosed to your family, friends or other persons you choose to involve in your care. In each case, before any such collaboration occurs, we will obtain your permission by asking you to sign ask you to sign a Consent for Release of Information form specifying with whom we may share information, for what purpose, and for how long. If directed by you, the consent form may be signed by your appointed representative (parent, guardian, power of attorney).

Payment: We may disclose your health information to seek payment for services we provide to you. This disclosure involves our business office staff and may include insurance organizations or other businesses that may become involved in the process of mailing statements and collecting payments.
Emergencies: We may disclose your health information to notify, or assist in the notification of a family member or anyone responsible for your care, in case of an emergency. Under emergency conditions or if you are incapacitated we will use our professional judgment to disclose only that information directly relevant to your care. We will also use our professional judgment to make reasonable inferences of your best interest by informing emergency response personnel or law enforcement officers, Adult Protective Services, or similar forms of assistance. If at all possible we will provide you with an opportunity to object to this disclosure.

Healthcare Oversight: We may disclose your health information to keep our practice operable for activities authorized by law, including audits, investigations, inspections, or licensure.

Required by Law: We may disclose your health information when we are required to do so by law, at the request of a coroner, medical examiner, funeral director, or through a court order, subpoena, discovery request, or other lawful process. We may disclose health information about you to a law enforcement official for law enforcement purposes.

Abuse or Neglect: We may disclose your health information to appropriate authorities if we reasonably believe that you have been a possible victim of abuse, neglect, or exploitation or the possible victim of another crime. This information will be disclosed only to the extent necessary to prevent a serious threat to your health or safety or that of others.

Public Health Responsibilities: We may disclose specific health information to prevent a serious threat to a person's or the public's health or safety.

Marketing Health-Related Services: We will not use your health information for marketing purposes unless we have your written authorization to do so.

National Security: The health information of Armed Forces personnel may be disclosed to military authorities under certain circumstances. If the information is required for lawful intelligence, counterintelligence or other national security activities, we may disclose it to authorized federal officials.

Appointment Reminders: We may disclose your health information to provide you with appointment reminders, including voicemail messages or letters addressed to you. (See your Right to Receive Confidential Communication below for information about your right to request these reminders in a certain format.)

Your Health Information Rights

Your health information will not be shared without your permission except as described in this notice or required by law. You may authorize other disclosures by completing an Independence, Inc. Release of Information form. You may revoke such authorization in writing at any time. Independence, Inc. has services available to help you understanding your rights regarding your health information. You may ask Independence, Inc. for a copy of this notice at any time. An electronic copy of this notice is available on the Independence, Inc. web site: www.independenceinc.org

You have the following rights regarding your health information:

Right to Request Restrictions: You have the right to request a restriction or limitation on the health information the Independence, Inc. discloses about you. Independence, Inc. will accommodate your request, unless we are obligated by law to disclose the information or unless we need to disclose the information in order to provide you with the services you are requesting or for any of the reasons stated above.

Right to Receive Confidential Communications: You have the right to ask Independence, Inc. to communicate with you in a certain way or at a certain location. For example, you may give us a different mailing address or phone number at which to reach you. Independence, Inc. staff will accommodate any reasonable request you may have about how we communicate your health information by alternative means or at alternative locations.

Right to Inspect & Copy: You have a right to inspect and obtain a copy (for a standard fee) of your health information. Exceptions are psychotherapy notes and information that is needed for a civil, criminal or administrative action or proceeding.

Right to Request Amendment: If you believe that the health information Independence, Inc. has about you is incorrect or incomplete, you may ask us to amend the information. Independence, Inc. may deny your request if the information is accurate and complete, or if you ask us to amend information that was not created by Independence, Inc., unless the person or entity that created the information is no longer available to make the amendment.

Right to Receive an Accounting of Disclosures: Our agency’s policy is to inform you whenever we disclose your health information to anyone. We will tell you with whom we spoke and a summary of what was said. Upon your request, we will provide you with a written list of disclosures of your health information, except for information that you are denied by law.

Right to a Copy of this Notice: You have a right to receive a copy of this Notice Of Privacy Practices at any time, in the form you request, such as: print copy on paper, large print, Braille, electronic format.

To obtain a copy of this Notice, ask an Independence, Inc. staff person. Or send a written request to the Business and Human Resources Coordinator or Executive Director at Independence, Inc. You may also obtain a copy from our website, www.independenceinc.org

Changes to This Policy: We reserve the right to make changes to this Notice of Privacy Practices to reflect changes in the law. If changes occur, a new Notice will be posted within 60 days, on our website at www.independenceinc.org
