

Do you want to improve training for Direct Support Workers in Kansas?

The University of Kansas (KU) and Wichita State University (WSU) are working with the Kansas Department for Aging and Disability Services (KDADS) to develop online training courses for Direct Support Workers (DSW) in the Home and Community Based Services (HCBS) program.

We are looking for individuals who receive HCBS, Direct Support Workers, and family caregivers to advise on this training. Opportunities to help include:

- Joining the Training Advisory Council (TAC) with other stakeholders to advise on training topics, content, procedures, and other needs. The TAC meets by Zoom on 4th Tuesdays of the month from 10am-noon.
- Reviewing training materials and providing feedback. The time commitment varies, and payment is available.
- Testing online training modules and providing feedback. The time commitment varies, and payment is available.
